Mission

The mission of Girl Scouts is to "build girls of courage, confidence, and character, who make the world a better place."

Girl Scouts is an informal education program promoting leadership, academic performance, and life skills by engaging girls in programs promoting financial literacy, STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics), leadership development, the arts, life skills, environmental stewardship, and community engagement. Through our mission, we work to give girls the desire to stay in school, develop good self-esteem, adopt healthy life skills, avoid risky behaviors, and gain the skills they need to build self sufficiency for themselves and their families for generations to come.

In Girl Scouts, girls have fun, make new friends, and go on fantastic new adventures. The program centers on the Girl Scout Leadership Experience—a collection of activities and experiences girls have as they earn badges, participate in cutting-edge STEM programs, sell cookies, explore the outdoors, do Take Action projects that make a difference, and more. Put simply, in Girl Scouts, girls discover who they are, connect with others, and take action to make the world a better place.

Background

Girl Scouts in the United States was founded by Juliette Gordon Low in 1912, a time when women could not vote, hold public office, or own property. Since 1912, Girl Scouts has become the premier leadership program for girls and women in the United States, with over 2.7 million girl and adult members.

Girl Scouts – Western Oklahoma, Inc. was formed in March, 2008, and serves girls and adult volunteers in 39 counties in central and western Oklahoma.

Today Girl Scouts is reaching girls in all walks of life with leadership, self esteem, outdoor education and other opportunities through traditional troops to innovative programming in schools, public housing sites, and juvenile detention centers.

Girl Scouts believes every girl has an important role to play. When girls succeed, so does society.

Impact

Girl Scouts - Western Oklahoma strives to create a consistent, high-quality program that is accessible to all girls who wish to participate. We work to maintain strong and diverse funding streams and provide sound management and financial stewardship.

Recent accomplishments:

- Girl Scouts - Western Oklahoma continues to increase our service to girls through collaborative partnerships with public schools and after-school programs.
- We maintain a program delivery model that provides more than 60% of all program services to the most at-risk girl populations in our state, despite declining federal and state funding.
- In 2015, we successfully completed a $290,000 capital campaign to build a storm shelter/activity center at our resident camp, Camp E-Ko-Wah, in Marlow, Oklahoma, and to purchase two passenger vans for transportation. The shelter was opened in May, 2015.
- In 2012, we successfully completed our $5.25 million capital campaign to purchase, renovate and endow a new leadership center for girls. The mortgage on this building was paid in full in 2014.

Our strategic goals are to:

- Increase our support and streamline processes to attract and retain quality adult mentors and volunteers.
- Create a culture within Girl Scouts that leads to greater retention of our employees and volunteers.
- Implement program improvements within Girl Scouting that create sustainable growth for the organization.
- Work closely with our governing board to create succession planning, engagement practices, and improve board development and recruitment.

Needs

Girl Scouts - Western Oklahoma continues its commitment to outreach programming throughout its service area.

- Public Housing - We serve 300 girls in four Oklahoma City public housing communities. Loss of state funding has left this program with a $25,000 gap in funding.
- Detention Centers/Juvenile sites: We provide 220 girls annually with leadership experiences through our Girls in Detention Centers program. The program, initially funded through the Department of Juvenile Affairs, received federal funding cuts, incurring a $55,000 funding gap.
- In-School Program Sites: Nearly 4,000 girls in public school districts throughout Oklahoma City, Norman, Enid, Lawton, Ardmore, and Duncan receive in-school program offerings. Most of the schools served are considered at-risk. We also have many schools on a waiting list who have requested the Girl Scout programs to which we are unable to serve. Each school program costs an average of $36,000.
- Episodic Volunteers - We understand that time is in short supply. That's why we have opportunities for even the busiest volunteer to still give time to our program. To get involved, please visit www.gswestok.org/volunteer to find an opportunity near you!

CEO/Executive Director Statement

Every day we are blessed with the fortune of being inspired by the girls that we serve in Girl Scouts. Their ability to meet the challenges that so many of them face with courage, confidence and character while making the world a better place is an achievement worth celebrating. Together we have increased our resources to better serve girls in western Oklahoma. We appreciate the support of our volunteers, United Way partners, and donors who have made it possible for us to provide strong, impactful programs for girls. We are proud of our partnerships with schools to create more in-school programs where there is a need, working with after-school and out-of-school programs to help provide girl-led programming. We continue to reach girls in public housing, juvenile detention, and alternative schools, along with many outdoor programs at community centers and our own camps. We are excited to be a leader in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) programs and to promote access to STEM programming for girls interested in careers in those fields.

As we continue in our next century of Girl Scouting, it is a time for us to honor the legacy we have been given and look forward to all the opportunities we can provide to girls in the future. It is an exciting time to be a Girl Scout. Thank you for giving generously to girls and supporting them as they find their leadership voice through Girl Scouting.

Program Short-term Success

Girls who develop the 5 Girl Scout Outcomes...

- Are happier, healthier, and less likely to engage in problem behaviors or be victimized.
- Girls who develop perseverance, positive self-esteem, and sociability have lower rates of obesity, depression, and aggression and show greater life satisfaction and well-being than those who do not develop such attributes or skills.
- Achieve more academically and feel more engaged in school. When students are more self-aware and confident about their capabilities, they try harder to persist in the face of challenges.
- Become strong job applicants. Employers recognize that skills such as good teamwork, decisionmaking, and communication skills are important for their employees.
- Become successful, well-adjusted adults. Children who learn to share and cooperate with others are more likely to have a college degree and a job 20 years later and are less likely to have problems such as substance abuse or brushes with the law.

Program Long-term Success

A 2012 study by the Girl Scout Research Institute found that Girl Scout alumnae display positive life outcomes to a greater degree than non-alumnae on several indicators of success, including sense of self, volunteerism and community work, civic engagement, education, and income/socioeconomic status.

Alumnae with more than three years' experience in Girl Scouts fare better than shorter-term alumnae regarding all of the above plus satisfaction with life, success, leadership, and relationship satisfaction.

Alumnae rate their Scouting experiences highly and consider Girl Scouting to have been positive and rewarding. They fondly remember positive aspects and experiences, say they have received concrete benefits from membership such as outdoor experiences and having a safe place to try new things, and actively recognize the impact Girl Scouts has had on their lives.

Program Success Monitoring

All Girl Scout programming is developed and assessed through the 5 Outcomes. Additional feedback from parents, volunteers, and Girl Scout staff are also taken into consideration when developing or assessing programming.

Comments on Programs

CEO/Executive Director/Board Comments

In 2008, Girl Scouts of the USA redefined the Girl Scout program as the Girl Scout Leadership Experience (GLSE) with Girl Scout "Journeys," an award-winning curriculum, becoming the foundation of the program. This program model allows for Girl Scouts to create a consistent, high-quality, and highly relevant program to all girls. In 2016, Girl Scouts simplified the national program model to tell a more succinct and consistent story about the impact of Girl Scouting on girls.

The 5 Girl Scout Outcomes are:

- Sense of Self: Girls have confidence in themselves and their abilities, and form positive identities.
- Positive Values: Girls act ethically, honestly, and responsibly, and show concern for others.
- Challenge Seeking: Girls take appropriate risks, try things even if they might fail, and learn from mistakes.
- Healthy Relationships: Girls develop and maintain healthy relationships by communicating their feelings directly and resolving conflicts constructively.
- Community Problem Solving: Girls desire to contribute to the world in purposeful and meaningful ways, learn how to identify problems in the community, and create "action plans" to solve them.

The redefining of Girl Scouts was centered in a desire to maintain a relevant program model for today's girls and volunteers. Because girls face different challenges than those of their mothers and grandmothers, it is important that Girl Scouts remain girl centered and girl led while being accessible to any girl who wishes to participate.

Additionally, all volunteer-based nonprofits struggle with the changing face of volunteerism. As most adults are working outside the home more than ever, we must be able to meet the needs of those adults who want to participate in community service in order to continue to provide high-quality Girl Scout programming.

The flexibility of the Girl Scout program allows flexibility for girls and adults to participate in the way they chose. Girls and volunteers choose how, when, and where they want to participate. This model allows the organization to continue to serve girls in traditional scouting and allows us to grow in new ways as well.

Girl Scouts continues to work to meet the needs of Oklahoma' girls and provide them with quality activities that will provide the experiences and skills necessary to ensure their future success.

CEO/Executive Director Experience

Shannon Evers has served as the Chief Executive Officer of Girl Scouts - Western Oklahoma since 2012. A lifetime member, Shannon is a Girl Scout Gold Award recipient, which is the highest achievement a girl member can attain. Shannon has worked professionally in the Girl Scout world for more than a decade. As CEO, Shannon has the primary responsibility for managing an operational budget of $4 million and assets of almost $10 million that support leadership development programs for more than 7,000 girls with the assistance of almost 50 employees and over 3,000 adult volunteers.

A graduate of the University of Oregon, Lundquist College of Business and Warsaw Sports Marketing Center, Shannon is also a Certified Fundraising Executive (CFRE). Shannon is especially adept at building and diversifying funding streams, increasing capacity, and developing long-term membership growth strategies. Shannon has been recognized for her efforts by the Willamette Valley Development Officers Association with the Starbright Professional Award.

Shannon is a dynamic advocate for the needs of girls and works to improve Oklahoma's statistics for women and girls through her involvement with various projects at the local and state level. A wife and mother of two boys (who are all active cookie connoisseurs), Shannon is actively involved in the community and serves as a foster parent, soccer coach, Rotarian, and as a member of the John Rex Charter Elementary School PTA, the Board of Advisors for the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction's Nonprofit Board for the Oklahoma State Department of Education. She is also a member of the Oklahoma Academy and a graduate of Leadership OKC's Signature Class 33.

Comments on Board & Governance

CEO/Executive Director/Board Comments

Serving 39 counties, we have an opportunity to reach out to involve more board members from all areas of our council. We continue to work to recruit community leaders from all areas to our board and meet the challenges that come with that, such as leveraging technology so that board members outside of our metro area can participate in board meetings without travel. We continue to work to diversify our council board of directors through board development selection criteria focused on geographic, ethnic, racial, and technical skill diversity.
